Why we burn pianos

When the Cajun people arrived in Louisiana they brought with them rich musical traditions, one of them a love of their family instruments such that when their pianos were no longer playable or repairable they were buried in the family plot. Louisiana soil was not suitable for burial so they placed them on a pyre and solemnly burned their loved one's body. Then they had a party. We like to have parties too.

We are proud to offer the following:

School Field Trips - Learning's a "natural" during hands-on field trips to ALNC! We work with teachers to ensure that outdoor experiences are an integral part of a child's education.

At-School Presentations - For classes unable to visit, naturalists will deliver hands-on nature programs to the schools.

After-School Programs - Educational and adventure programs for elementary and middle school at-risk, low-income students challenge youth with outdoor exploration and activities.

Summer Nature Camps - Outdoor adventure and hands-on nature activities encourage children ages 2-12 to experience the great outdoors throughout the summer. From Adventures with Laura Ingalls to Muckin' in the Marsh and Strive to Survive, there's something for everyone!

Family Programs - Outdoor nature programs celebrate the seasons. Enjoy the Family Trailside Backpack program, seasonal programs, and many other outdoor activities year-round, specially designed with families in mind.

Scout Programs - Troop badge work, overnights, pre-scheduled programs, and Eagle Scout projects lead scouts to a deeper appreciation of the outdoor world.

Birthday Parties - No kid is too old to celebrate naturally with a cool nature-themed birthday program and party at ALNC.

Special Events - Leopold Discovery Day, Maple Syrup Fest, Fall Fest and Pipers in the Prairie offer wholesome nature-oriented fun for the entire family.

Leopold Interpretive Trail - This award-winning trail leads visitors through examples of native Wisconsin habitats, with easy to understand explanations of various sites and questions Aldo Leopold might have asked you, had he been standing next to you on the trail!

Nestled in a hidden valley in unglaciated western Dane County, the Black Earth Campus features challenging topography, mature woods, and rocky outcroppings, in addition to two educational facilities.

The Alexander Studio is the ideal space for a quick orientation to the site, educational programs, meetings and workshops. The building features instructional and meeting spaces, cathedral ceilings, circular performance platform, and outdoor deck.
